DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hoshino.

Hoshino discloses the use of a adjustor for attaching a string to the bridge of a stringed instrument, said adjustor comprising: a saddle (S1) with first and second opposing ends and a longitudinal axis passing through said ends, having a protruding fulcrum extending perpendicular to said longitudinal axis (see figure 2), and said saddle defining a string groove adapted to receive the string proximate said first end; an anvil, defining a pivot groove adapted to receive said fulcrum; and means for adjusting the relative angle of the anvil and said saddle about said fulcrum, whereby the distance from said string groove to said anvil is varied (claims 1 and 8).

Regarding claims 2 and 3, the device as taught by Hoshino includes a fulcrum that extends the full width of the saddle and the pivot groove with an arcuate section that extends the full width of the anvil (see figure 3)

Regarding claims 4-6, the device taught by Hoshino also includes a string groove(32) with a slot and a radius equal to that of a string.

Regarding claims 7 and 9, the device as taught by Hoshino also includes a an adjusting screw(34) passing through the saddle proximate the second end and threadedly engaging the anvil.

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Kosinar discloses the use of a string adjustor for a stringed musical instrument.
